Fund Aim

Robeco Emerging Stars Equities invests in companies located in emerging economies throughout the world. In general, these economies are growing faster than developed countries and have stronger balance sheets for governments, companies and households. Common risks in emerging economies are political and governance risks, that need to be monitored well. The fund selects investments based on a combination of top-down country analysis and bottom-up stock ideas. The focus is on companies with a sound business model, solid growth prospects and reasonable valuation. On average the fund has 35 to 50 holdings in the portfolio.
